

New Emotion 2in1 presenter / pabis intelligent payment system:

BAUSCHER puts combination of design and technology in the spotlight

Weiden, February 2013. – A passion for innovation and the drive to always improve on the company's best are borne out by two of BAUSCHER's key focus areas at the Internorga (8 to 13 March, Hall B7/Stand B7.410): The variable 2in1 presenter keeps food hot or cold and is a welcome addition to the very popular Emotion buffet collection. A newly developed transponder brings more flexibility to the pabis system, enabling it to be used with all BAUSCHER collections.

Emotion 2in1: Versatile all-rounder

The new 2in1 presenter from the Emotion collection is causing a sensation in the buffet landscape. Behind the attractive furniture look in laminated wood there lurks a practical dual-purpose show-stealer that can accommodate the various sizes and depths of porcelain Gastronorm trays from the Emotion collection. With this innovation, dishes can be kept either hot or cold and presented on the buffet in an appealing and versatile way.

Pabis: more flexibility for professional catering

In professional catering too, the demands on the design of the tableware are also becoming more exacting, combined with a desire for technology that saves time and money. This is why BAUSCHER has now made the pabis intelligent payment system more flexible. Until now the transponder – an RFID chip that identifies the meals on the tray and transfers this information to the till and payment system – was integrated into the underside of the porcelain and available only for a special pabis range of tableware. The newly developed adhesive transponder meets the stringent quality specifications for BAUSCHER professional tableware and works with all collections manufactured by the porcelain specialist. The result: more individuality and freedom in the choice of porcelain.
